How To Use Pulse

Please follow these instructions to download the product using Pulse:

1) Go to http://www.pulsedownloader.com/ and click the "Download" button to download the Pulse installer for your system (it will automatically detect whether you are on a Mac or PC).

2) Install the application, when it is complete you should end up with a launcher icon for Pulse.

3) Launch the application and register a new account, you'll probably want to use the same credentials you use for your VSTBuzz account to keep things simple.

4) After that go back to the login page and log in to Pulse, you should be presented with the products page (this may be blank if you haven't added any products yet)

5) To add a new product you simply click on the "Add a product" button to the top right, copy and paste the code from your VSTBuzz account into the space where prompted and click "redeem". This will add the library to your collection.

6) Click the "Install" button on a library you want to install, you can also choose where to install it at this point by clicking the small file icon and browsing to the folder you want to install the library to.

7) next just click "Download and Install" to begin the installation process. Once this is complete you should be able to simply browse click "Open" to go to to the folder location and load up the instrument by doubling-clicking the .nki file in the instruments folder.

Here is a Youtube video that explains the entire process:
